Kentucky Oaks Day at Churchill Downs is the second highest attended horse race in the United States – following the Triple Crown of racing; the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness Stakes, and the Belmont Stakes. Aside from thunderous live horse racing, fans celebrate fashion and fundraising for critical women’s health issues. On Kentucky Oaks Day, Churchill Downs Racetrack is a vision in pink as more than 100,000 guests are asked to incorporate pink into their attire in an effort to drive national attention to the fight against breast and ovarian cancer.

This focus on pink honors the Oaks official flower, the stargazer lily, and celebrates Churchill Downs' advocacy and fundraising efforts for women's health issues.

One of the most beloved traditions of this 15-year effort is the Survivors Parade - a march of breast and ovarian cancer survivors that takes place on the historic racetrack prior to the Race. This year there will be 150 deserving cancer survivors invited to walk.

Your day at Churchill Downs begins with the first race at 10:30am a dozen races later The Oaks runs at 5:51pm. During the day at Churchill Downs, all Food & Beverage is included even the cocktail known as "The Oaks Lily," featuring Vodka and Cranberry Juice. (B)
